

PACIFIC BUSINESS NEWS

Friday, May 9, 2003

Massive chocolate box unveiled for Mother's Day

Pacific Business News (Honolulu)

If life is like a box of chocolates, this is living large.

The Honolulu chocolatier Island Princess, looking for a fresh product offering in time for Mother's Day, this week rolled out a massive box of chocolates called, simple, "Deluxe."

The box, too large to fit in a mailbox, contains 42 fairly large pieces of chocolate toffee macadamia candy.

"I guess you could say that we were thinking out of the box' on this one," company head Michael Purdy said.

Island Princess owns its own 1,100-acre macadamia nut orchard on the Big Island and a tropical fruit winery in Oregon.

All contents of this site © American City Business Journals Inc. All rights reserved.